Integrated Justice in Washington State

May 10-14, 2004

Activity in the JIN Program Office

Activities this week centered on preparing the agenda for next Tuesday's Board meeting and on getting matters in order for the Summary Offender Profile pilot. I included a draft strategic plan and decision package in the materials, which is available at <http://www.jin.wa.gov/meetings/2004/051804PDreport.pdf>.

JIN Proof of Concept

The first JIN Proof of Concept project, a collaborative effort to share and update stolen vehicle information among the King County Regional Automation Network (RAIN), the Law Enforcement Support Agency \(LESA\), and the Washington State Patrol, is now live. We walked through the demonstration with LESA and then with King County in the DIS Boardroom and are ready for the presentation on the 18th. In addition to showing how systems can share information quickly and efficiently, the proof-of-concept also demonstrates how discrete data sources can be seamlessly integrated into existing and familiar business practices.

We also conducted a design review with DIS for the second JIN proof of concept, which will exchange information related to a Failure to Appear among Seattle Municipal Court, the Department of Licensing and the Administrative Office of the Courts. No issues or obstacles were identified.

Summary Offender Profile

The Test server is working. We demonstrated the application to the people designated as system administrators from Thurston and Douglas County on Wednesday and may get people using the system next week. There are still a couple of technical issues to be resolved on the production server and we need to iron out some of the details regarding how to add users to the pilot groups. I had several conversations with Dan Parsons of the WSP on this topic and I believe we have the issue resolved.

RCW Renumbering

The newly updated and recently christened JIN RCW Charge Table was posted to the JIN website. Use of this document will greatly contribute to standardizing how information is kept in various systems throughout the state. This project also serves to show how some tasks in the justice process, if done centrally, can have myriad beneficiaries and aggregate savings for the state.

NCHIP

The state's FY 2004 federal NCHIP application was submitted by OFM on April 30. On Thursday, Bev Hempleman, the criminal justice grants coordinator, briefed me on its contents. In addition to two of the projects recommended for funding by the Grants Subcommittee on April 16 and endorsed by the Board on April 20, the proposal also contains funding for grants management and travel. A summary of the request is below:

Project	Lead	Request
Electronic Disposition Transfer	WSP	$300,000
Electronic Judgment & Sentencing (partial funding)	AOC	$276,000
Criminal Justice Grants Coordinator (Salary and Benefits)	OFM	$71,795
Program Supplies	OFM	$608
Bureau of Justice Statistics Conference (Grants coordinator, 3 Board members from local jurisdictions)	OFM	$6,122
Travel to meetings and training for Grants coordinator, Board members from local jurisdictions.	OFM	$1,475
TOTAL		$656,000
